Experience matters

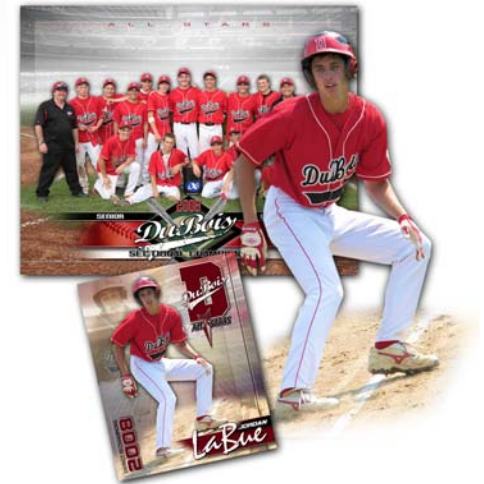

Today there are so many options available for school and organized athletic "photo day" photography, and the task of finding the right photographer doesn't get any easier when you consider how sports photography has evolved in this digital age.

When it comes right down to it, knowing the right person that you can entrust with capturing a lasting remembrance is priceless. I place into every portrait many years of photographic and graphic art experience; it's with this blend that enables me to create prints that will have character and personal meaning for years to come.

Merging multiple images into a theme based composite design equates into a one-of-a-kind formula. Team sports photography takes on a whole new meaning when combining live game-time or simulated action and stills together in one print. Allow ProPoint Media Photography the opportunity to work with your team to achieve the image you're athletes deserves.
